GENERAL MAC ARTHUR ASKS DUE RETALIATION FOR JAPANESE BOMBINGS OF UNDEFENDED MANILA

British Smash Axis Stand in Tank Battle

42 Enemy Tanks Fall In Attacks

Axis Forces Reported 420 Miles From Border of Egypt; British Push Ahead

Reds Smash Nazis

Russians Break Zone of Fortifications in Oka Region

(By The Associated Press)

Britain's desert armies in a violent two-day tank battle have smashed an Axis attempt to make a new stand after a 420-mile retreat from the Egyptian border, frontline dispatches said today, and British vanguards were reported pushing on toward Tripolitania, the western part of Libya and the last piece of Premier Mussolini's African empire.

British middle east headquarters said 42 Axis tanks were knocked out of action in a battle south of Agedabia, 80 miles below captured Bengasi, and declared that "our pressure on the enemy is being maintained."

With Cirenaica, or eastern Libya, conquered, British troops were said to be advancing somewhere along the road to El Agheila, 80 miles beyond Agedabia, on the coastal highway skirting the Gulf of Sirte. El Agheila is near the Tripolitania border.

Axis versions of the Agedabia tank battle said 74 British tanks and armored cars had been destroyed, but neither the German nor Italian communique claimed to have halted the British sweep westward.

Prisoners Are Taken

Five truckloads of German infantry were added to the thousands of prisoners the British have rounded up in the desert campaign, a Cairo bulletin said.

On the Russian war front, Soviet dispatches credited Red army soldiers with blasting the Germans from important defenses on the Oka river—apparently in the Orel-Kaluga sector, south of Moscow—and Russian parachute troops were reported dropping behind German lines to hamper the Nazi retreat.

Dispatches to the newspaper Pravda said the Russians had broken through an elaborately fortified zone where the Germans had built trenches, dugouts, barbed-wire entanglements and blockhouses along the Oka river.

Soviet forces scored breakthroughs in four other populated places, the dispatches said, adding:

"Our units keep steadfastly advancing. Great efforts are being exerted by the Germans to check the panicky flight of their troops.

Red Star, the army newspaper, said Soviet parachutists were dealing heavy blows behind the German lines, with specially trained

Eilshemius Dies

'World's Greatest' Painter Bemoans Tardy Fame as Ashes in Mouth

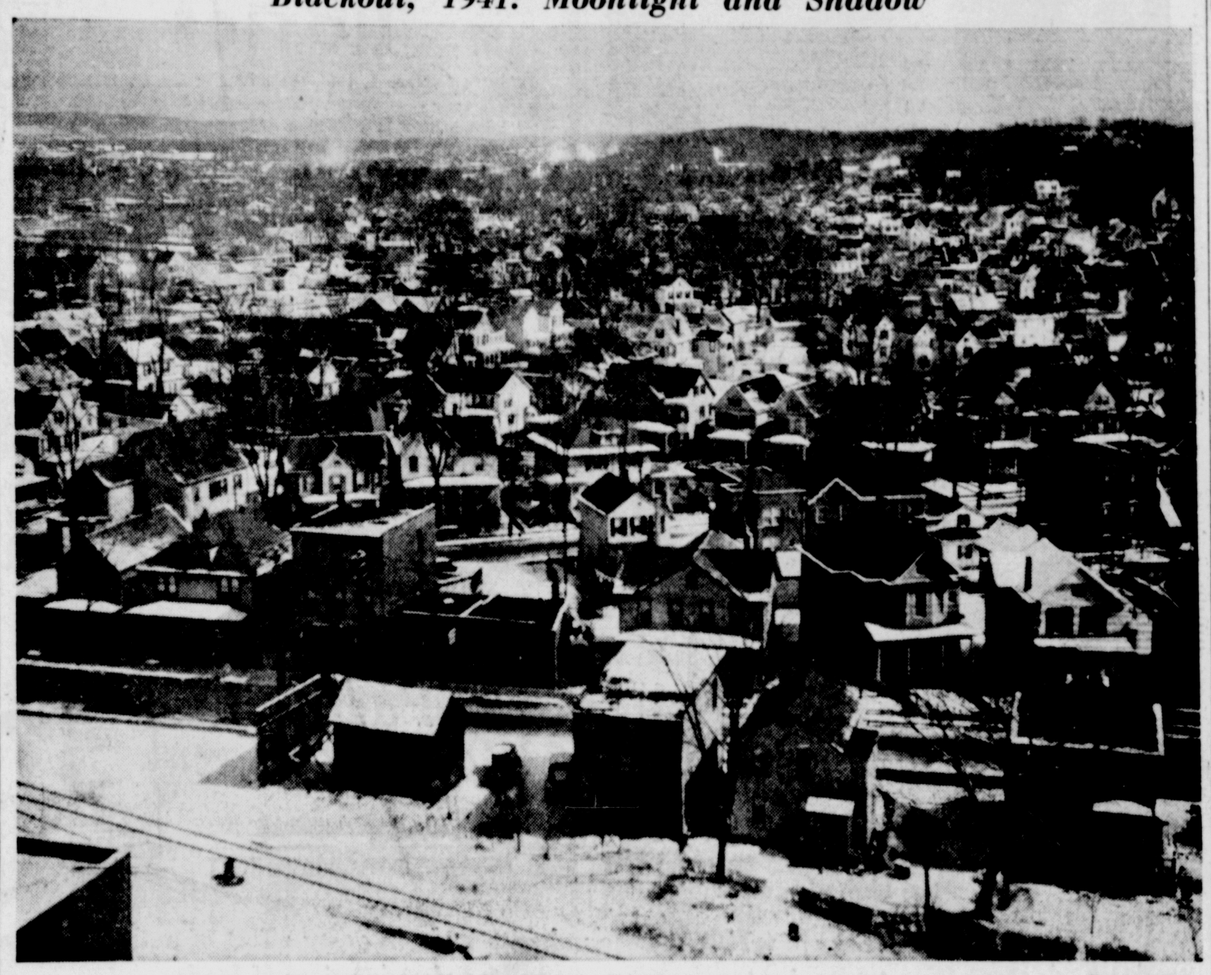
New York, Dec. 30 (AP)—Penniless and embittered against a world that recognized his paintings too late for his pleasure and profit, Louis Michel Eilshemius is dead at 77.

Pneumonia struck down the shaggy, yellow-bearded, self-styled "world's greatest painter" yesterday as he lay in Bellevue Hospital, unable to pay for his medical attention.

International recognition that came only two years ago was like "ashes in my mouth," he once said, and thus Eilshemius took his place beside such posthumously-renowned artists as Gaugin and Modigliani, who died in want.

Born in Arlington, N. J., of Dutch parents, the youth who later was to call himself the Mahatma of Manhattan's Montparnasse and Transcendental Eagle of the Arts worked as a bookkeeper and attended Cornell University before studying painting here and in Paris.

Blackout, 1941: Moonlight and Shadow



Freeman Photo

The city's first blackout, a test, brought the reality of World War, No. 2, to every householder last night, but a brilliant moon served to throw buildings and landmarks into bold relief. However, officials pointed out the effectiveness of the trial was 100 per cent, for given a moonless night or one of driving rains or wild wind, the streets would have been totally black. This view taken from atop the City Hall tower is testimony to the cooperation of residents. Other photos on page 12.

Board Votes Sums From County Fund For Various Uses

Supervisors End Session for 1941 With Usual Transfer Steps and Auditing of Bills

The 1941 session of the Board of Supervisors of Ulster county was brought to a close Monday afternoon at 5 o'clock when after transacting routine business incident to the closing of the annual session, the Board adjourned sine die. Many of the supervisors who attended the session were attending their last session for when the Board meets again in January to organize there will be several new faces among the members as the 1942-43 Board convenes.

In closing Supervisor Rifenbary, who moved for adjournment, said the coming year would be a difficult one with war now upon the country. He also referred to the members who were attending their final session and said that even though they were leaving the Board their spirit would remain with the Board. He spoke of the pleasant session in which a feeling of fraternity had always reigned.

The committee on ratio and apportionment reported on the assessment rates which had been established in the various districts of the county including special districts and the report was adopted by a vote of 20 in favor and Supervisor Wood of Hurley not voting.

A report from the committee on form and footing was made to the effect that the assessments were in proper form and correct.

The committee on equalization made its final report as to the state and county tax rate and this report was also adopted by the Board with Supervisor Wood of Hurley not voting.

A report on extension of tax rolls was unanimously adopted.

The district attorney was authorized to draw upon the Court and Jury fund to the amount of $2,000 for miscellaneous expenses for 1942 as usual.

Authority was given the county treasurer to transfer from the County Clerk Receipts Fund $10,000 for the county auditor fund; $5,000 for the court and jury fund; $7,500 to pay the board of prisoners in the county jail and $5,000 for repair and repainting to the county buildings, including the

City's Test Blackout Is 'Practically Perfect'

Air Raid Wardens, Assistants Will Meet Tonight to Discuss Results; Cooperation Is Commended

For a quarter of an hour Monday night Kingston's streets were illuminated only by the light of the moon as all of the house and street lights were snuffed out while the first blackout in the city's history was being staged. Members of the Kingston Defense Council expressed themselves as greatly pleased with the success of the test.

This evening all of the wardens and their assistants will meet at the Legion Building to discuss their experiences of last night, and make plans for any emergency that might arise.

Captain L. S. Miller, speaking in behalf of the blackout committee, said today that the committee desired to express its sincere thanks to the citizens of Kingston who had cooperated so loyally in making the blackout a success. "It was practically perfect," said Captain Miller.

It was at 6:25 o'clock Monday night that the fire sirens began sounding the air raid warning, and while many, who heard the sirens promptly turned off the house

Snyder Is Chosen Hospital Director

Tire Rationing Boards Must Be Appointed Members of Defense Council

At the meeting of the council last night, Dr. Frederick Snyder was named director of emergency hospital and medical service and was complimented upon the energetic manner in which he had proceeded with the organization of the hospital personnel and equipment.

Mayor Heiselman stated that he had received this morning a new ruling from the New York State Bureau of Rationing, requiring that members of local rationing boards be appointed members of the local defense council. In accordance with that ruling, the mayor stated he had appointed the members of the local rationing board members of the defense council. As reported in yesterday's Freeman, these are John M. Cashin, Stanley J. Matthews and Robert R. Rodie. The rules stated that no tire dealer could be appointed members of rationing boards.

Mayor Heiselman announced that several weeks ago he had appointed Allan L. Hanstein, a member of the local council, to be liason officer between the local and county defense councils.

The two members of the Poughkeepsie council reported last night that Poughkeepsie is considering having a daylight air alarm to familiarize citizens with the procedure to be followed during daylight hours.

War Department Approves Women's Volunteer Corps

Action by Congress Needed to Authorize Service; Stimson Sets Cost at $3,000,000

Washington, Dec. 30 (AP)—Women volunteers in khaki uniforms would be enrolled as privates and officers of the United States Army under a plan approved today by the War Department and now awaiting congressional action.

A uniformed women's auxiliary corps to serve directly with the army in the aircraft warning service and in clerical and other non-combatant posts was recommended by Secretary of War Stimson in a letter to the House Military Affairs Committee. His letter endorsed a bill by Rep. Edith Nourse Rogers (R-Mass), calling for establishment of the feminine corps.

Stimson said the size of the women's army would depend upon military requirements and estimated its cost during 1942 at $3,000,000. Chairman May (D-Ky), had said previously that hearings on the bill would begin after the

Wheeler and Capper Hope for Internal Collapse Inside German Nation

Washington, Dec. 30 (AP)—Two senators who formerly opposed administration foreign policy — Wheeler (D-Mont.) and Capper (R-Kan.) — expressed high hope today that an internal collapse in Germany would make it possible for the Allies to concentrate their forces against Japan.

Wheeler, who was in the forefront of congressional battles against administration foreign policy until the attack on Pearl Harbor, told reporters that while the nation faced a grave situation he was confident of eventual victory.

"The most hopeful sign at present is the fight the Russians are putting up and the indications that are coming out of Germany that the people there are beginning to get restless," he said, continuing:

"I have always felt that sooner or later Germany would crack up from within because they would never be able to consolidate the various races in Europe and because there is bound to be a great deal of sabotage in the countries Mr. Hitler has taken over.

"If Germany should crack up—and I hope it will—then in my judgment England, Russia, China and the United States could bring Japan to her knees. In that event we could make it so that we would never have to fear the Japanese menace in the Pacific again."

Wheeler said it was unfortunate that this country had sold Japan scrap iron, tin, copper, cotton and other materials which had been forged into weapons to fight Americans. Such shipments should have been stopped at the outbreak of Japan's war on China, he declared, adding that "I hope we will never make a mistake like that again."

Churchill Gives Pledge to Fight War to Victory

British Prime Minister Addresses Canadians in Ottawa; King Lauds Premier

Ottawa, Dec. 30 (AP)—The Prime Minister of Britain reported to the Canadian people today on the free nations' war against the Axis.

Standing before Canada's leaders in the green chamber of the House of Commons, Winston Churchill pledged the fight would go on, whatever the odds, until the united efforts of the free peoples of the world were crowned with victory.

Crowded into the Commons chamber was a colorful gathering of senators, members of Commons, high service officers and other dignitaries eager to see and hear in person the man who leads the empire to war.

Hundreds more stood outside the Peace Tower on Parliament Hill in the crisp but sunshiny afternoon.

Canada's Prime Minister W. L. MacKenzie King, introducing Churchill, called him "the personification of Britain's greatness."

"That greatness was never more apparent," King declared, "than in this time of gravest crisis in the history of the world."

Asserting he spoke for all Canada the Prime Minister declared Canadians "are unreservedly determined to maintain our stand at Britain's side and at the side of the other nations that fight for freedom...until the day of ultimate triumph over the evil forces that now seek to dominate the world."

Churchill's entrance into the chamber was greeted with wild applause, and the applause was even louder when the prime minister arose to speak.

Churchill said Britains were "most grateful for all you have done in the common cause and know you are resolved" to do even more in the fight for freedom.

"Canada is a potent magnet, drawing together those in the new world and those in the old," he said.

Canada's contribution to the British war effort has been "magnificent," he asserted.

The Canadian army in Britain, he continued, is in a "key position" to strike at any invaders of Britain.

"Their presence may help to deter such a battle on British soil," he went on.

The Prime Minister said he thought it "unlikely" that the war would end without the Canadians coming to close quarters with the Germans "as their fathers did on the Somme and at Vimy Ridge."

He referred to Hongkong and the British work in making it a powerful port which has been "wrested from us for a time" by the overwhelming power of the home forces of Japan.

"At Hongkong Canadian soldiers under a brave officer whose loss we mourn have played a valuable part in gaining precious days," he said.

Invasion Armies Held at Standstill; Navy Raid Looms

MacArthur Says Churches, Hospitals, Centers of Culture Deliberately Chosen by Tokyo's Planes; All Is Reported Quiet

(By The Associated Press)

Japaan's invasion armies were reported to have advanced within 45 air-lines miles of Manila today as reports circulated in the Dutch East Indies that Allied reinforcements were on their way to the Pacific and that a general offensive against Japan could be expected soon.

The latest—and closest—Japanese thrust toward the Philippine capital came from the southeast, in the Atimonan-Maubun sector, and indicated that the invaders had registered a gain of 15 or more miles.

Dispatches from the fighting zone said the Japanese had reached Luisiana and Dolores, each about 45 miles by air from Manila.

Retaliation Asked

A three-word bulletin from U. S. Army headquarters indicated today that Japan's invasion armies had been fought to a standstill within 36 hours of the deadline on their boast that they would capture Manila "before New Year's."

From the nearest point, the invaders still had more than 50 miles to go to reach the Philippine capital.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur, commander-in-chief of U. S. Armed forces in the Far East, urged that the United States retaliate against Japan for the recent bombing of Manila after it had been declared an open, undefended city.

Accusing Japan of violating "all the civilized processes of international law," Gen. MacArthur said: "I bespeak due retaliatory measures."

A War Department communique said a survey of damage to Manila by "the repeated senseless and savage bombing by Japanese aircraft . . . indicates that churches and other centers of Christian worship and culture were deliberately selected as special targets" for attacks by the pagan Japanese invaders.

A Tokyo military spokesman asserted that operations in the 24-day-old battle of Luzon Island were moving according to schedule but changed the New Year's date for the capture of Manila. This time he predicted its fall "before January 10."

Simultaneously, a Japanese naval communique said Japanese aircraft had sunk a U. S. destroyer and two submarines and damaged 76 merchant ships in Luzon waters between December 22-28.

Bloody Japanese troop losses in land fighting at Mauban, 60 miles air-line southeast of Manila, were reported in dispatches from the Philippine capital.

Slaughtered in Batches

American and Filipino shore defenders there were said to have slaughtered the Japanese in great batches as they swarmed ashore on Christmas morning. Unending waves of Japanese reinforcements ultimately compelled the defenders to fall back to new lines.

"Everything is quiet," said Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters, in the briefest communique of the war. The bulletin was issued at 11:45 a. m. Manila time.

Fantasy in Yellow Sweeps Across East, Manila to Malaya

Japanese Onset Is Great, Allies May Yield, but War Is Young and Distances Great

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(Wide World War Analyst)

The Japanese reportedly are dying forty to one for their British enemy on the edge of the steaming jungle country of the Malay peninsula, and are being slaughtered by the Filipinos southeast of Manila—but still the Japs continue to come in ever growing numbers to increase the pressure in both these strategic centers.

And as the Nipponese soldiers fling themselves into the flames of death with that fanatical abandon which marks their race, the Japanese nation watches for Premier General Tojo to journey to the grand shrines of Ise to offer his pagan prayer for victory to the sun goddess, Amaterasu O Mi Kami. The whole drama of this war with its oriental outlook and barbaric practices is fantastic—like a yellowed page of history from the days of the Shoguns.

Still, fantastic though it is, there is no gainsaying it is so very real that the position of the allies in the Far East grows more grave hourly as they await reinforcements. The Japanese, operating close to their island kingdom and having plenty of well-equipped bases, possess a vast advantage at this stage.

There is no telling how much ground the allies may have to give in these early days. Certainly the temporary sacrifices may be great, and we should be prepared for that possibility. As remarked before, it depends on the nature of the reinforcements and how soon they arrive.

No Occasion for Surprise

One hears many expressions of concern that American reinforcements haven't reached Manila before this, but there is no occasion for such surprise. Even if help started immediately after the attack on Pearl Harbor, it could scarcely reach the battle-field by this time, assuming that a convoy was involved. It's a long haul across the Pacific.

Then, too, one would scarcely expect a naval contingent to try to proceed direct to the Philippines, running the Japanese blockade which has been swung across the accustomed route. There are other possibilities, however, but involving a longer voyage.

Australia provides excellent naval bases. Sydney, with its new graving dock, which is big enough for a battleship, is one of them. Brisbane is another. And then we have the northern port of Darwin, which is strategically situated in relation to the entire war zone. It is close to the Dutch East In-

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

By the Associated Press

Christmas Story

Richmond, Va. — Private Alvin York, nephew of the famous sergeant, ate Christmas dinner at the home of Mrs. A. W. Jennings of Richmond, and thereby hangs a coincidence.

Mrs. Jennings read in the newspapers that Private York, whom she didn't know, was stationed at Camp Lee, Va., and invited him by letter to a holiday dinner. Not having had reply by Christmas Eve, she walked out on Richmond's Broad street to find another guest.

She passed half a hundred soldiers from the thousands at Camp Lee before she picked out one. It was Private York. He was looking for her home.

Tough Bird

Kendallville, Inc.—A white leghorn pullet on Eugene Treech's farm near South Milford walked too close to a shredder and was buried under a heap of fodder.

Traffic Trick

New York — Chief Magistrate Henry H. Curran, who has ordered that parking fines be doubled beginning Monday—with the warning they would be increased up to $50 unless motorists cleared the streets—is safe from possible penalties himself.

He has decided to walk to work.

Whoa, Boy!

Elkhart, Ind.—Two young men haled to traffic court for running a stop light were let off with a warning to hold their horses next time. They were on horseback when they went through the light.

Outdoor Sports

Portland, Ore.—A friend nervously opened a radiogram from Army Lieut. Carl Parker Gies, on duty in the Philippines.

"Having wonderful time. Wish you were here," it read.

The Salem, Ore., flier recently was awarded the distinguished service cross for shooting down two Japanese planes in combat.

Unfulfilled Ambition

Fort Dodge, Ia.—Bill Haney of the Navy Recruiting Office confided he became a gob because of a boyhood ambition to sit in the back of a boat and trail his bare feet in the water.

But he's been in the navy 24½ years and still hasn't gratified this desire.

Add Fish Stories

San Pedro, Calif.—Alert Coast Artillerymen at Fort MacArthur saw two strange objects resembling enemy submarines off shore and notified the officer in charge.

"Immediately the big guns were trained," reported the fort's publication, "ready to blow the subs to Davy Jones' locker."

But the big guns didn't speak. Closer observation disclosed the spbs to be whales.

We pledge ourselves to this cause

A Statement by

The Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company

We make this pledge publicly to our national government and to the people of the United States:

That we will cooperate unhesitatingly in every effort of authorized government agencies to prevent unwarranted rises in prices of foods.

That we will continue our efforts to reduce the spread between prices paid to the grower and prices charged to the consumers.

That to this end we will continue to do everything in our power to assist the farmers and growers of America in the orderly marketing of their products at the fairest possible prices to them.

That we will make every effort to hold our inventories at the lowest point consistent with good service to our customers because hoarding, whether by wholesalers, retailers, or consumers, will cause higher prices.

That we will endeavor to continue to pay our employees the highest wages and to give them the best working conditions in the grocery business generally.

That we will make every effort to continue to sell food at retail at the lowest gross margin of profit in the history of the retail grocery business.

Today we are providing food for our customers at the lowest gross profit rate in the history of the retail grocery business. This means that we have achieved efficiencies in the distribution of food never before attained. More of your food dollar goes for food and less for overhead expenses than ever before. No other great retail business in the United States in any field is operated with such a low cost of distribution.

No one in the food business can control the wholesale price of food. Only the government of the United States has power to do this, and for the protection of our people this power in the government is now a necessary power.

Today, with the nation at war, we believe that no private interest has any rights in conflict with the general public interest.

The armed forces of the United States are today receiving more and better food than ever before in our national history. It is equally important that all of our people working and living behind the lines, men, women and children, shall be better fed and better nourished than ever before in our national history.

Port Ewen Woman Is Struck by Car

Miss Ethel Schleede Is Hit While Walking on Road

Miss Ethel Schleede of Port Ewen was taken to the Kingston Hospital about 11:15 Monday night for treatment of injuries sustained when she was struck by a car as she was walking along 9-W near the driveway entrance to the Martin Schleede residence at Port Ewen, where she makes her home.

She suffered from lacerations of the back and possible head injuries. Her condition this morning was reported to be apparently fair, indications being that her injuries are not serious.

Deputy Sheriff Gillmore, who answered a call to the sheriff's office, found that Miss Schleede was walking south, along the right side of the road, when she was struck by the right side of a car being driven south by Alex Gersh of Highland. She was thrown some distance. Gersh stopped his car and went into the Schleede home to summon help, while Sergeant Ray Van Buren of the Kingston police department, who happened to be visiting there, brought Miss Schleede into the house.

Gersh was questioned at the court house, but was not arrested. Troopers Reilly and Judge of the B.C.I. were making a further investigation of the accident today.

"BARE" DOESN'T MEAN "NUDE"

And "lead" can be what a leader does or what a plumber uses for pipe, depending on how you pronounce it.

Words—pictures—symbols, the things we all use to convey ideas from one mind to another mind.

They are tools—the tools of civilized men, but they can be sharp or blunt, well used or misused.

WARNING
to All America

You walk the paths of freedom. They are glorious paths, but they are beset by dangers.

Words—pictures—symbols can poison you, can hurt you.

Your newspaper brings you, through words, pictures and symbols, two kinds of news:

1. FACTS
2. OPINIONS

Now, the very nature of news in a free country demands that you have both the GOOD and the BAD news. You want the FACTS, the harsh, disheartening facts and the gentle, reassuring ones. You want the opinions of all sorts of men, good and bad.

Armed with these facts and opinions you are able to perform the responsibilities of citizenship. If you accept and support the good, reject and cast out the bad, you are armed to destroy the rattlesnakes along the paths of freedom.

Mere refusal to see or hear won't help you. It is the INFORMED man not the IGNORANT one who stays free.

Every day your newspaper brings you hundreds or thousands of vital FACTS—the market prices, births, deaths, marriages, fires, meetings, happenings—the list is very long, and it is amazingly accurate and complete.

Every day your newspaper brings you many opinions—its own editors' opinions, speakers', columnists'—even the weather man's opinion of tomorrow's climate.

Every day in newspaper advertisements, merchants on BOTH SIDES OF THE STREET bring you the facts and opinions about the goods and services they hope you will want from them.

The great thing about America and American newspapers is YOUR RIGHT TO CHOOSE what you will believe and whose urgings you will accept—whose products you will buy, whose policies you will follow.

MacArthur Asks Due Retaliation

a. m. (Eastern Standard Time) today:

"Philippine theatre:

"A survey of the damage done to undefended Manila by the repeated senseless and savage bombing by Japanese aircraft after it had been declared an open city has been practically completed. This survey indicates that churches and other centers of Christian worship and culture were deliberately selected as special targets for enemy attacks. These edifices were of a distinctive type of architecture and their character could not have been mistaken. Before the brutal assaults were begun, Japanese bombing planes flew low over the city, obviously selecting the buildings which were subsequently bombed.

Gathered for Sanctuary

"In many of the churches attacked devout residents of Manila had gathered for sanctuary and solace within the hallowed cloisters.

"Among the buildings destroyed were churches and shrines where many generations had worshipped for centuries. The beautiful old Church of Santo Domingo, with its priceless art treasures and venerated relics is now a heap of smoking ruins, before which relays of black-robed priests are continually praying for their people.

"The great Cathedral of the Immaculate Conception was a special target for Japanese bombs. It was sought out and attacked on three successive days. The College of San Juan Lateran, with its irreplaceable library of original manuscript, was likewise attacked. Repeated attacks on successive days were made on Santa Rosa Convent and Santa Catalina Convent. The San Juan Dedios Hospital was also the object of vicious attacks and three colleges supported by religious institutions were either destroyed or damaged in the air raids.

"In this connection, the War Department is in receipt of the following radiogram from General Douglas MacArthur commanding the United States army forces in the Far East, commenting on these recent bombings:

"Enemy mercilessly bombed the open city of Manila using sixty-three bombers. Damage has been severe and includes all types of civilian installations, such as churches, the cathedral, hospitals, convents, business and private dwellings. It is notable that before Manila was declared an open city and before our anti aircraft evacuated therefrom he had abstained from attempted bombing of anything in Manila except military installations. His present actions can only be deemed completely violative of all the civilized processes of international law. At the proper time I bespeak due retaliatory measures.

"There is nothing to report from other areas."

Naval Battle Expected

The furious air assaults on the fortifications barring the way to Manila Bay raised the possibility today that Japan was getting ready for a full-dress naval effort to reduce the key defenses of the harbor.

The capital watched with keen interest for definite evidence of such an operation, for it would mark the first time in modern warfare that naval forces have moved directly against the heavy guns of a major base.

Before the advent of air power strategists gave the land batteries a distinct edge in such an engagement, but the teaming of bombers with surface vessels may upset this long-standing theory.

The evidence of Wake Island, however, would indicate that such a naval operation is still a very costly operation. Although Wake had no protective fortifications and only light guns—six 5-inchers and two 3-inchers — the marine gun crews were officially credited with sinking a light cruiser and three destroyers.

Japanese warplanes opened up their fierce attacks on the Manila Bay defenses yesterday, concentrating on the Corregidor Island fortress in a three hour bombing assault.

The enemy purpose apparently was to soften up the fortification and perhaps silence some it its big guns, but the Corregidor anti-aircraft batteries were ready for the bombers and threw up a hail of fire which downed four of them.

Some observers expected that a synchronized land and sea drive on Manila was imminent and that Japanese naval forces would attempt to silence the big guns of Corregidor Island fortress, at the entrance to Manila harbor, then sail directly up the bay to the capital.

Manila dispatches said the two-hour aerial assault on Corregidor yesterday, in which four Japanese bombers were shot down, was generally regarded as the opening salvo in an attempt to reduce the fortress.

Persistent reports circulated in Manila that Japanese warships attempted to approach the rocky island fortress during yesterday's air assault, but army headquarters said it had no confirmation.

Meanwhile, Australian newspapers said British Prime Minister Winston Churchill has advised Australian Prime Minister John Curtin that Britain and her allies have decided on a definite plan of action in the Pacific which will enormously improve their striking power against Japan.

For reasons of military secrecy, no details were disclosed, but a government spokesman was quoted as saying:

"Insofar as it affects Australia, the Pacific position has improved immeasurably."

On the Malayan front, British Far East headquarters reported that Japanese invasion columns striking through the jungles had made a strong attack on British lines north of Singapore but suffered heavy casualties.

The British said Japanese losses ran as high as 40-for-one in bitter hand-to-hand fighting.

British Withdraw

London dispatches said British troops had withdrawn from Ipoh, 290 miles north of Singapore, and taken up new defense positions between the mountains and the sea to escape a threatening pincer movement from the north and northwest.

A British communique reported that Japanese warplanes hacked at Singapore's $400,000,000 defenses four times during the night, inflicting "some damage to thatched buildings."

British military quarters made no effort to discount the danger of a reported Japanese threat to Sumatra, across the narrow Strait of Malacca from Singapore, where the Japanese were said to have bombed Medan, the chief city, and attempted parachute landings.

Sumatra's fertile plateaus contain some of the world's largest British and Dutch rubber plantations and vast holdings of the Goodyear, Goodrich and United States Rubber Companies. The 1940 production totalled 400,000 tons.

However, there were no further reports on the Japanese parachutists, indicating that they had been few in number or swiftly mopped up.

Manila residents, spared further bombing since the first two days of violation of her declared defenselessness, watched anxiously for signs of help from the American mainland as the invaders surged relentlessly against the thin lines of defenders in the hills to the south of the capital.

On the Pacific coast of the United States worried representatives of the Alaskan fishing industry sought naval protection against Japanese marine prowlers.

Mexico canceled all Japanese commercial fishing licenses.

The Canadian Parliament was called into joint session to hear a speech (at 2 p. m., E.S.T.) by Churchill, who said on his arrival British Prime Minister Churchill in Ottawa yesterday that the anti-Axis allies had reached "the crest of the road" to victory.

Russians said they were continuing to drive the Germans backward.

Fierce fighting continued in Libya. British said the Axis forces were retreating westward from Agedabia, close to the Tripolitania border.

War Department Approves Women's Volunteer Corps

war department gave an opinion on its merits.

Modeled in general on the Auxiliary Territorial Service in which thousands of British women are enrolled, the American counterpart would pay privates $21 a month, the same as army men. Women officers and non-commissioned officers would be chosen on merit, trained in special schools and granted pay in line with army pay for similar posts.

Units of the women's corps would be stationed at each large army post or camp. They would live in barracks and be subject to military discipline. Outside of several drill hours weekly they would do clerical and secretarial jobs and work as teleprinter operators, cooks, bakers, dieticians, pharmacists, telephone operators and hospital and laboratory technicians.

Stimson indicated that the women's corps would take over entirely the present aircraft warning system operated by civilian volunteers. In Britain the A. T. S. also operates fire control apparatus of anti-aircraft batteries, working with gunners under fire.

Under new British laws for mobilization of human resources, women may be drafted into the armed forces in England, but no such draft is contemplated in America.

Ellenville Concern Agrees Not to Contest Action

New York, Dec. 29 (Special)—Under an agreement entered into by the Wilson Handkerchief Co. of Ellenville and the Wage and Hours Division of the Department of Labor, the company will not contest the action instituted against it in Federal Court here last week, in which it was charged that employes have received less than the minimum wage called for by law in the industry.

The company consents to the filing of an injunction against it, calling for no future violations of the act, and will pay its employes an amount equal to the difference between actual wages and legal wages as far back as October 24, 1938. This payment will be in four equal monthly installments.

In turn, the government will not prevent the company from shipping manufactured articles now on hand which were made under sub-standard wage and hours conditions.

Request Is Sidetracked

Washington, Dec. 30 (AP)—A request that all passenger automobile production be halted, effective Thursday, was reported today to have been sidetracked temporarily by the Supply Priorities and Allocations Board. Officials disclosed that the request was made by the lend-lease administration, in support of a pressing need for increased supplies of automobile tires for armies fighting the Axis. SPAB sources declared, however, that no move to cancel January production quotas for the automobile industry would be taken unless such action was recommended by the OPM civilian supply division, and the lend-lease proposal therefore was forwarded to the division for study.

Norwegians Are Executed

London, Dec. 30 (AP)—Execution of 11 more Norwegians at Stavanger and a fine of $448,000 levied on the city for civil disorders which followed were reported by the Norwegian telegraph radio from the Oslo radio today. Ten of the victims were charged by German occupation authorities with espionage and the other with possessing firearms, it said.

Henderson Balks Price Increase in Cigarettes

Washington, Dec. 30 (AP)—Price Administrator Leon Henderson today balked a proposed increase in the manufacture's price of Lucky Strike cigarettes by announcing a sales ceiling at the level prevailing December 26.

The American Tobacco Company had announced Saturday that the price would be increased 57 cents, to $7.10 a thousand, Henderson claimed the increase was sought to maintain earnings at the current level in the face of higher taxes, but the company declared that increased manufacturing costs, exclusive of taxes, necessitated the rise.

Henderson's Office of Price Administration had asked the company to rescind the increase, contending that far more exhaustive studies would have to be made to justify an increase.

Other companies did not boost their prices. Henderson said he was prepared to extend the scope of the price fixing order to take in jobbers and retailers if necessary.

THE 1942 TAX BUDGET

Mayor-elect William F. Edelmuth when he assumes office as head of the city government on January 1, will be faced with the problem of making up the tax budget for 1942. At the public hearing held by Mayor C. J. Heiselman on the tentative budget last week there was objection by taxpayers to a tentative tax rate placed at $45.49.

Mayor Heiselman at the hearing made it plain that he was simply filing with the incoming administration the estimates as prepared by the various boards and city departments. He stated he would not decrease any departmental estimates.

It has been the custom for the various boards and departments to submit estimates much larger than the anticipated appropriation with the expectation that they would be whittled down. Undoubtedly judicious trimming of these estimates filed with the incoming administration can reduce the proposed tax rate of over $45 a thousand valuation, without seriously affecting in any way the work of carrying on the usual city's business during 1942.

The New Year will see a great increase in the number of state and federal taxpayers, also higher taxes will be paid. Anything that can be done to reduce the city tax rate will prove a benefit to the hard-pressed taxpayer who has been finding it more and more difficult to pay his taxes.

Another landmark goes with the razing of the Hauck Brewery on McEntee and Wurts streets.

There has been an increase in the number charged with and convicted of drunken driving here recently. Stiffer sentences might help in reducing the number.

A GREAT SPEECH

Yes, there is greatness in that man Churchill. He showed it in that speech to Congress the other day. He didn't have them "rolling in the aisles"—it wasn't that kind of speech, nor that kind of occasion. But he had them sitting on the edges of their seats, leaning eagerly forward to catch every word and tone, and breaking again and again into such loud and prolonged cheers as have seldom been heard in the Capitol.

He also thrilled a vast radio audience. Those who tuned in casually, expecting only a gracious but perfunctory salute to our Congress and people, found themselves strangely moved by that deep voice and its resounding periods.

Mr. Churchill has a way of seeming to speak extemporaneously. Possibly he does, although his speeches when read seem to show evidence of careful preparation. But you cannot analyze a gift like his.

There is dignity and nobility that cannot be put on paper. There is a command of "pure English undefiled" that is seldom heard in our time. There is power to present a great cause in great language, to take a listener up to a high place and show him the kingdoms of the world—and to roast an enemy in an oratorical hell. He is the only speaker we have heard who can do justice to Adolf Hitler. Long may that strong voice and noble utterance continue to serve the Allied cause!

A DEBT OF HONOR

It seems lately as if we're likely to lose the Philippines. And the prospect brings a shock.

Not that we would mind the mere separation so much. We agreed several years ago to give the islands their independence, and normally it would come about four years from now. But that boon was to go to the inhabitants as a free gift to a good, grown-up child.

It would be very different to have them taken from Uncle Sam's control by force, and still worse to have our proteges come under the ruthless power of a nation whose traditions, religion and whole way of life are different.

Under the Japanese the Filipinos would be robbed and enslaved. We must use all our power to prevent that, as a matter of honesty and decency. And if the islands are forced to surrender, they must be restored again.

FOUR-DAY FOOD SHELF

A four-day supply of food essentials is all that any family needs to keep in stock, says Paul V. McNutt, director of defense health and welfare services. Pantry supplies should include such staples as cheese, evaporated milk, dried beans or peas, peanut butter, canned vegetables, canned and dried fruits, canned meat or fish, cereal.

There is plenty of food in the country to supply the nation generously. The war may upset routine distribution occasionally, causing local and temporary shortages of certain foods. Such dislocation can be kept to a minimum, however, and may even be wholly prevented, if people keep their wits about them and refuse to plunge into panicky hoarding.

A four-day reserve of essentials means just that. If certain items are used, replace them. Order the next sugar or flour a few days before the supply on hand runs out. Above all, in planning for your own family's welfare, be fair with your neighbor's family. There will be enough for everybody, as far ahead as we can see today, if everybody demands only what he needs and has a right to.

PAYING FOR VICTORY

Nobody knows yet just what the nation's tax future is to be. The only certainty is that the Treasury Department and Congress will find it wise to boost taxes soon. The idea that it is better to pay as you fight, rather than go on piling up a bigger and bigger debt, has long been accepted by the public, and doubtless Congress will come to see it that way, too.

Paul R. Leach, a Washington correspondent, suggests that if the taxpayer sets down what he expects to pay Uncle Sam on March 15, increases it by 10 per cent for luck and multiplies it by the unknown quantity "X", he'll have his future tax bill. It may turn out to be about a quarter of his total earned income. The taxpayer in the higher brackets will pay a larger share.

Another thing is certain. High taxes don't rate as real sacrifice, now that Americans are dying under enemy bombs and gun fire.

Give us, O Lord, one good idea at a time.

DEATH FROM APPENDICITIS

It is gratifying to see the great results obtained when the medical profession and the public combine to fight off death from dangerous diseases.

A few years ago the death rate for appendicitis in two large cities in the United States was about equal. The medical profession and many 'public-minded' citizens of one of these cities arranged a campaign to prevent deaths from appendicitis. They were able to cut the death rate in half by newspaper and post advertisements which outlined the early symptoms of appendicitis, the danger of taking a laxative once the abdominal pain started, and the great danger of delaying operation beyond thirty-six hours.

Fortunately, the public everywhere is learning this lesson and for the past ten years the death rate in appendicitis has been steadily decreasing till today it is the lowest on record.

This low death rate has been achieved despite an increased number of cases reported. While surgical skill is responsible to some extent in lowering the death rate, even more far reaching has been the better understanding by the public of the symptoms of the disease and the great importance of prompt medical and surgical attention.

Death from appendicitis is, therefore, controllable. Perhaps the principal cause of the lowered death rate is the promptness with which physicians send the patient into hospital. Formerly the physician permitted the patient to remain at home for two or three days under the system of 'watchful waiting'. Today the patient is sent to hospital as soon as the symptoms defintely point to appendicitis. The patient and the patient's family, due to their knowledge of the danger of delay, which knowledge they have gained from the Philadelphia and other campaigns, are willing to enter hospital with delay.

"In 1937 half of the patients were admitted to hospital within 24 hours after symptoms began, whereas in the previous years, less than one-third had been sent to hospital so promptly."

The lesson is that while the first attack of appendicitis cannot be prevented, death from appendicitis can be prevented in the great majority of cases by prompt admittance to hospital and avoiding laxatives.

INVINCIBLE! By Bressler

Washington Daybook

By Jack Stinnett

Washington — The bombs that fell on Pearl Harbor blasted into new intensity the war on another field—the propaganda war in Latin America.

No sooner had echoes of the first guns at Honolulu reached the Axis nations than they uncorked an ether campaign directed at South America. With lies and distortions, they tried feverishly to weaken the bonds that bind the nations of the western hemisphere.

They hammered away constantly on the claim that in one blow Japan had made a shambles of our Pacific fleet and so weakened our hold on the western sea that it would only be a matter of days until we were driven out entirely.

The Federal Communications Commission, with its 24-hour-a-day system of monitoring foreign radio broadcasts, had for months been translating and analyzing more than 600,000 words daily from Europe, Africa and the Orient. The number of words fluctuated several hundred thousand on a few previous occasions but this time it rose to around a million words.

All of this didn't catch the United States napping on its own propaganda front. The Office of the Coordinator of Inter-American Relations, headed by Nelson Rockefeller, was already operating, with the cooperation of the war, navy and state departments, in the field in a big way.

Heretofore, however, the office had placed its emphasis on hemispheric defense, cultural relations, and information designed to bring about understanding between ourselves and our neighbors to the south.

The only problem was to switch over to military affairs and with factual information beat down the lies and misrepresentations of this latest all-out Axis propaganda effort.

As one example of how quickly we moved to defeat this: when the Japs pulled their sneak attack on Hawaii, "En Guardia," the Spanish and Portuguese language magazine published by the Rockefeller office, was on the presses. Immediately, the first five pages of the magazine were killed and factual news stories of events in the Pacific and of our own speedy and virtually unanimous declaration of war, with President Roosevelt's address, were substituted.

The office issues 200,000 copies of "En Guardia" and it goes into the libraries, the schools and colleges, and to the government officials of every Latin American Republic.

Just as the tone of the magazine was changed, so was the tone of our own news and informational broadcasts that go to South America, changed to meet the deluge of Axis guff. The nations to the south had the facts of the Pearl Harbor and Philippine attacks as soon as they were made public here. And in recent weeks, they have had a lot more information about the great acceleration of our defense efforts than they had in the days of mere education and culture.

Not so long ago, there were only 200 employes in the Rockefeller office. Today, there are approximately 500. There are 11 international broadcast stations operating in this country, and although not all are directed entirely to Latin America, many of them are.

If it's to be a battle of words in the western hemisphere, the United Staates is well prepared with facts and true information as ammunition.

"AT CENTURY'S TURN"

By H. L. VAN DEUSEN

The reading of some old clippings in the early days at the turn of the century leads us today to write in a reminiscent vein of the years between 1900 and 1910.

I recall the old Powell, Smith cigar factory, which later became the American Cigar factory, and today is Brown's Servicenter. In the days of which I write the stripping department, which occupied the entire lower floor of the building facing on Broadway, with the exception of a small part set aside for office purposes.

In the days of 1903-07,I recall that Henry Beck was in charge of the stripping department which employed several hundred boys and girls, while the entire plant when operating full force had some 1,800 employes.

Among those in the stripping department in those years I recall offhand Leo Murphy, Tommy Ryan, Al Sapp, Louis Sapp, Neal Enright, and many others whose names have escaped me.

I also recall in those early years the Simon brothers who conducted a store on lower Broadway. I have forgotten their first names, but I do recall that one brother always carried a cane and the other an umbrella. They carried only a high class grade of merchandise. Many older readers will recall these brothers who for many years resided on McEntee street.

There was also Jacob Harris who had a shoe store on lower Broadway while James Tongue and son, Alfred W. Tongue, conducted a grocery store, nearby. On Broadway at Meadow street was the grocery store of the Mufson Brothers, while on the Strand was the tobacco store of the Kingsburg brothers, Henry, Isaac and Jacob.

I also recall Henry Connelly and his drug store on lower Broadway where he was engaged in business for many years.

With Mr. Connelly was Frederick Dennis, who is still with the Connelly Drug Company. Another druggist downtown who is still in business is Ben Johnston. The old established furniture house of Stock & Cordts, which is still one of the largest furniture houses in the Hudson river valley, was in charge of the late Nicholas Stock, who was also active in city affairs, serving on some of the city boards.

There was also Marks Jacobs, the custom tailor, and associated with him was his son, Harry Jacobs. For many years Mr. Jacobs was on lower Broadway and later on East Strand. I also recall that Marks Jacobs for years was active in Rondout Lodge, No. 343. F. & A. M., as was the late Oscar L. Eastman.

I also recall the old wooden steps that led from the office of the canal company in the rear of Temple Emanuel on Abeel street, to West Strand. In those early days former Alderman Ralph Mann and Philo Powell were dare devil bicycle riders and on a bet they rode their bikes down the steep steps without mishap.

Result of War Economy Is That New Taxpayers Will Arise, Certain Businesses Will Carry Burden

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Dec. 30 — The transition from a peace-time to a war economy is the biggest factor affecting the individual and business incomes of the American people. This year the national income may exceed $90,000,000,000—a record all-time high—and next year it may go beyond $100,000,000,000, but this isn't very cheerful news to the individual or the business which is being restricted by war-time regulations.

What will happen is that a new set of taxpayers will emerge and that a relatively small number of businesses will pay the bulk of the taxes. There was a time when it was commonly expressed that 20 per cent of the corporations did 80 per cent of the business of the country. It is believed that in war-time 20 per cent of the corporations will do close to 90 per cent of all the volume of business done.

This means that the tax collector for the federal government will find taxes in a small number of business places and that the high tax rates will bring back to the treasury from 60 to 70 per cent, if not more, of the moneys spent on defense.

The fortunate few who are doing war defense business will spend money for tools and facilities and services and thus spread their purchasing power widely and this may more than counterbalance the losses in consumer goods and in the purchasing power of the individuals engaged in those consumer lines that are curtailed.

Certain commodities of which there are no shortages will feel the impetus of the increased buying power. Tax collections as a whole will increase by phenomenal amounts. Thus it used to be considered very remarkable when $6,000,000,000 was taken into the treasury in taxes of all kinds. This was when the New Deal was spending at the rate of $9,000,000,000 a year.

Today the picture is very different. The fiscal year which ended last July showed tax receipts of $8,200,000,000 and expenditures of $12,000,000,000. In the fiscal year of 1942 which ends on June 30th next, the tax collections will run about $12,500,000,000 and the expenditures are expected to top $26,500,000,000.

One year later—June 30, 1943—the treasury hopes to have collected as much as $16,000,000,000 in taxes in the preceding 12 months and to have spent $45,000,000,000 in that same year. This is a rate of spending never before equalled and something unheard of in spending speed will have to be accomplished. This month the spending is at the rate of $1,800,000,000. To attain a forty-five billion dollar rate for the coming year, the monthly expenditures will have to be stepped up to about $3,700,000,000, which is just about double what it is today.

The profits will disappear and so will the tax expectations of the treasury from many businesses and from many individual sources. But this will be more than offset by other individuals and by other businesses. When the $16,000,000,000 tax bill is collected, at least $10,000,000,000 will come from income and excess profits taxes, about $4,000,000,000 from excise and miscellaneous taxes and about $2,000,000,000, from unemployment payroll taxes and customs duties.

The treasury is planning a new set of rates so as to extract out of incomes earned in the calendar year 1942 more and more money. Sometime in the first quarter of 1942 these tax rates will be definitely established so business and individuals can plan accordingly. The number of taxpayers will increase. There will be many who will move up from the lowest group of brackets to middle income brackets and there will be some who will move into the very high brackets who have never been there before. So far as the treasury is converned, it will not matter who has fallen by the wayside or who has come up in the world with more material rewards—the final tax bill will amount to more than it has ever been before.

One thing is certain—there will be a lag between tax collections on the one hand and the rapid rate of expenditure. Only when the war ends and wartime spending ceases abruptly will the treasury catch up in part. That's one reason why there is support at the treasury for enactment of a so-called withholding tax in which the citizens pays a large part of the next year's taxes during the current year.

The nation is experiencing a period of rapid adjustment to the new conditions. But the amounts of money about to be spent are so large and will be expended so fast that on the whole the country will presently feel the customary war boom. Those who have the money to spend both as individuals and in business will, as has happened in the past, do a great deal of spending in almost every direction in which goods or services are available for purchase.

Gunman Takes Vanderbilt Jewels During Reception

Beverly Hills, Calif., Dec. 30 (AP)—What does a lady of wealth do when she meets a gunman face to face at a swank wedding reception?

Mrs. Gloria Morgan Vanderbilt slyly turned a ring so that her hand hid the costly setting, surrendered two diamond clips worth $3,000 and remarked:

"You're a little bit late. Most of the guests have left."

"Yes, I know," said the gunman. Lady Thelma Furness, Mrs. Vanderbilt's sister, gave up a $1,000 V-for-victory clip and said quietly:

"You're quite foolish to do this, because the house is full of cops."

The gunman fled without attempting to rob the eight guests who remained of the several hundred who had come to Mrs. Vanderbilt's home. The occasion was a reception for Mrs. Vanderbilt's heiress daughter, 17-year-old Gloria, and her bridegroom, Pasquale (Pat) diCicco, 32-year-old actors' agent.

The gunman, posing as a chauffeur for one of the guests, entered by a rear door early yesterday morning and followed a maid into the reception room. Gloria and di Cicco, who were married in Santa Barbara Sunday, just had left on their wedding trip to Florida and Washington, D. C.

Late yesterday, while Mrs. Vanderbilt and Lady Furness were telling reporters about the robbery, a man presumed by police to be the gunman appeared at the front door, handed a package to a maid, demanded a receipt, and left hurriedly.

The package contained the V clip and a note scrawled in pencil: "Mon Dieu et mon droit." (My God and my right.) "Dieu et mon droit" is the motto of the English ruling family.

Town of Rochester

John L. Schoonmaker, chairman of the Town of Rochester Housing Committee, in a meeting held last Saturday in the Accord fire house, appointed captains and assistants from the 14 towns and villages in that area to aid in tabulating the housing facilities for possible evacuees from New York.

Aided by Mortimer H. Block and Benjamin Davis, Mr. Schoonmaker selected the following captains and assistants: Accord: Hiram Brooks, Mrs. Edward Davenport, Mrs. H. M Eppes, Mrs. G. B. Schoonmaker, Raymond Lawrence, Floyd W. Deringer; Granite: Max Geller, Miles Markle; Alligerville: Mrs. Earl Schoonmaker; Cherry Town: Harry Malinka, Melvin Green; Liebhardt: Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Fred, Ralph Hornbeck; Mettachonts: Frank Kelder, Aaron Bell; Mombaccus: Benjamin Reavin, Charles Freer; Pine Bush: Esther Besdesky, Benjamin Davis; Rock Hill: Mrs. Alfred Muller; Rochester Center: Loyd Embree, Frank Smith; Palentown: Charles Brust, Arthur Riggs; Pataukunk: Herman Dunn, Mr. and Mrs. Ferris Turner; Tabasco; Jacob Grey; Whitefield: Mr. and Mrs. Havelin Barley, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Mc Guffey, Archie Hall Davis.

Chairman Schoonmaker urged the complete co-operation of all residents of that township in filling out the housing blanks. He pointed out that while the large number of hotels and boarding houses in this resort area would house a considerable overflow from the city, it is necessary that every citizen fill in his blank in order that the county may be prepared for all eventualities in this time of national emergency.

The Rochester Reformed Church at Accord is being furnished with blankets and other necessities for a temporary shelter and distributing point for evacuees. The church has a well-equipped kitchen in the basement and an adequate heating system. William C. Anderson, head of the Rochester Civilian Defense Committee congratulated Chairman Schoonmaker and his aides on their organizational work. He also expressed his thanks to Mrs. Eleanor Cottington and Town Clerk Lewis H. Miller for the unselfish time and effort they have donated in registering their fellow townsmen for civilian defense work.

Red Cross Tells Of Relief Needs

War Fund of $50,000,000 Is Now Required

The American Red Cross, pledged to a major role in the nation's battles, has issued an appeal to the citizens of this community and of every American community for an emergency war fund of $50,000,000.

When the Red Cross worker, who is giving his or her services to this great cause, asks for a donation for war work, do you know how that donation, be it large or small, is going "to be spent."

Here are the preliminary figures:

For services to the armed forces—$25,000,000. This includes hospital work, medical supplies outside of standard government equipment, surgical dressings, sweaters, etc., for service men and activities essential for the welfare and morale of the troops.

For disaster and emergency relief—$10,000,000. This means food and shelter for raid victims among civilians, a new service in the present day "total war."

For civilian defense service—$5,000,000. This is for training nurses, first aid classes, canteens, motor corps, and emergency relief, co-ordinating with local civilian defense.

Service and assistance to chapters—$4,000,000. This is for help to the 3,740 chapters with their 6,131 branches and their trained office staffs.

All other offices and activities—$6,000,000. This is provision for expansion and unforseen development. And remember that these figures do not include the value of all the services that are given by the volunteers who share in the work. If a financial estimate of these services could be made, it would be far in excess of these figures.

Always close slide fasteners on garments before laundering. This keeps them in good order and keeps them from tearing other garments.

Fowler Advises Seals Inventory Should Be Taken

Joseph M. Fowler, general chairman of the Christmas Seal Campaign, urged that desk drawers and tables be searched for unpaid Christmas Seals

"Very often these sheets of seals are forgotten or get buried in a welter of Christmas wrapping paper and are out of sight until the owner thinks it too late to pay for them," Mr. Fowler said.

"These seals were mailed to residents of our community in November. Our local tuberculosis association must draw up its budget for 12 months of work during the coming year. It needs all the support we can give for an effective program.

Corn stuffing is very good in roast chicken, turkey or duck. Substitute cup of drained, canned corn for one of cups of bread called for.

Evacuation Plans Made

Every township in Ulster County is now organized to conduct the house-to-house canvass to determine housing capacity for a possible evacuation from the New York City area. This task is being carried on by the Food and Shelter Division of the Ulster County Defense Council, at the request of the New York State Division of Housing. A township housing chairman has been appointed in every town by the defense chairman. Each chairman now has the necessary supplies and instructions and in many cases considerable canvassing has been done. There has been some delay in getting the survey blanks from the Division of Housing. It was necessary for a member of the county committee to go to New York on Friday to get a supply. These have been distributed.

Each township chairman has appointed district captains who in turn, are naming enumerators. It is estimated that over 250 volunteer workers will assist in the huge task of listing all available housing accommodations in the county. Survey cards for over 1000 hotels and boarding houses will be filled out from data on file in the Kingston office of the State Department of Health. The enumerators will however be asked to secure additional information to complete the necessary information.

The following is a complete list of the township housing chairmen in the twenty towns of the county: Denning, Herbert George, Sundown; Esopus, Philip Fisher, St. Remy; Gardiner, Raymond V. O. DuBois, Gardiner; Hardenbergh, Verner Marks, Arena; Hurley, Mrs. W. A. Warren, Hurley; Kingston, Miss Hazel Burton, Kingston, R. D. No. 2; Lloyd-Elmer Fisher, Highland; Marbletown, Ganse Beach, High Falls; Marlborough Benjamin Chillura, Marlborough; New Paltz, Irving I. Kauder, New Paltz; Olive, Mrs. Floyd Terrihew, Ashokan; Plattekill, W. T. Jenkins, Highland; Rochester, John L. Schoonmaker, Accord; Rosendale, Hrs. Harry Wesp, Rosendale; Saugerties, W. C. Cotton, Saugerties; Shandaken, Mrs. Fred Osterhoudt, Shandaken; Shawangunk, George Case, Wallkill; Ulster, Miss Harrietta Thomas, Saugerties R. D.; Wawarsing, Harold B. Gillette, Ellenville; and Woodstock, Miss Alice Henderson, Woodstock.

It is planned to complete the entire canvass before Januery 15 and send in the tabulation sheets to the State Division of Housing. Further evacuation plans will be made and announced as soon as the survey of accommodations in the 18 counties of this area have been completed. The immediate task is to make the complete canvass and list every available accommodation, including private homes and returning the survey cards to the respective township housing chairman at the earliest possible time. The town chairman still have the task of tabulating the cards and sending the summary to the county office.

The Man at the Gate

I said to the man
Who stood at the gate—
The gate of the coming year;
"Give me a light
That I safely tread
Into the dark
And unknown land;
Give me a light to banish fear,
Take from my heart
This haunting dread."

He said to me,
This man that stood
At the gate of the coming year:
"Go into the dark
And unknown land
And place in God's
Your trembling hand;
Far better than the light of day,
Far safer than any man-known way."
Said the man that stood
At the open gate—
The gate of the coming year.

There was a Scotchman who passed a general store and saw the sign "Families Supplied" . . so he went in and ordered a wife and two children.

Harold—Yes, the bear jumped out at me and I raced for a tree. As I went by I leaped for a limb 12 feet in the air.

Fair one (excitedly)—Yes, yes. Go on!

Harold—But I missed it.

Fair one—Oh, were you in the hospital afterwards?

Harold—Nope, I caught the limb on the way down.

About two days after a woman says she can't afford a new dress she goes down town and buys a new dress.

Sergeant (on rifle range)—This new bullet will penetrate nearly two feet of solid wood, so remember to keep your heads down.

One of the first essentials to explaining a matter is to understand it ourselves.

Mistress—Mary, I think I smell something burning downstairs. Did you remember to turn off the electric iron when you left the ironing board, as I told you?

Maid (newly arrived)—Yes'm, I did. I mos' surely did. I pulled dat chain once lak you tol' me and den I pulled it again to make sure.

The Year Passes

Go gently, old year, lest they speak a name,
For dreams that sleep too long awake and cry,
Go softly, old year, through dawn's scarlet flame,
White dove wings arrow down this western sky.
Go softly, swiftly, heed not war's grim thunder
For Spring will come and plow the dark months under.

The hotel was on fire. On a sixth-story ledge stood a lovely film actress, while flames crackled about her. Below, the firemen were holding a net, while the crowd waited in agonized suspense. Finally, a strained voice screamed: Jump—for heaven's sake!" The film actress folded her arms in calm disdain. "I'll do nothing of the sort," she answered. "Tell the director to send my double here at once."

What the average schoolboy wants is a history that will repeat itself.

THE PHONE BOOTH MURDER

Chapter 35

Buck Private

HALF an hour later Dr. Cummings sat down on the bathhouse steps beside Asey and tossed the bedraggled remains of a chewed-up cigar at a horseshoe crab.

"Never in all my days," he clamped a fresh cigar between his teeth, "have I ever seen anything like this. Never! I'm speechless, Asey. Speechless, I tell you. Asey, who was that soldier who popped out of the fog and helped the troopers hunt? Was he the same soldier they found hanging around before? Who is he? What in blazes has he got to do with things?"

"Wa'el," Asey puffed at his pipe, "I got him cleared up, Doc. Seems he's Freddy's beau."

"That buck private?"

"Uh-huh. Seems he was gettin' along fine in the world bein' a copy writer in an advertisin' agency, an' then he done some recruitin' ads, an' he got so fired with patriotism he up an' enlisted. Seems whereas Mrs. Doane could tolerate the idea of a copy writer as a son-in-law, she couldn't stomach the notion of a buck private, an' so a considerable number of problems arose. If Washy'd only gone into more detail about him last night, I'd of got him settled sooner."

"What's he doing, lurking around here? Is he on leave?"

"Nope. Seems the next problem of his outfit is the defense of Quisset Harbor from attempted invasion, an' his colonel got the idea that the other side might be doin' some preliminary spyin', so he hit on the idea of preinvasion counterespionage, as you might say. This feller's it."

Cummings kicked at a piece of seaweed.

"Asey, why in blazes was this fellow Smith shot?"

"Smith?"

"That's what the draft registration card in his wallet said. Horace Smith—what's so funny about that? Sometimes," Cummings said, "you stump me, Asey! Anyway, of all the innocuous-looking individuals—did he lisp?"

"Not exactly. Why?"

"Oh, he looks as if he might have lisped, that's all. Why was he shot, Asey?"

"He knew too much," Asey said. "An' I'm inclined to think, Doc, that someone's made a mistake in killin' him. I think if someone had left him alone, an' let him talk to me, the chances are good that he'd have answered some questions but just set up a lot more, like everyone else has done to date. But now that someone's gone so far as to kill him, I kind of guess I'm on the track at last. I guess it was the girl was meant to be killed, all right. I guess someone besides Horace knew about her intention to dress up like Miss Olive, an' so they grabbed the opportunity to kill her while she was dressed up, to spread confusion. Which, I must say, they sure done!"

"Humpf. And you said you thought Miss Olive knew—d'you realize, Asey, that woman's never turned up yet?"

"Uh-huh. I do. How long was Smith—you can't guess how funny that Smith part is, Doc! How long's he been dead?"

Oldest Inhabitant

"AN HOUR or two. I don't think," Cummings said unhappily, "that I can face going to work on him. I know just what I'll find, that he wasn't shot by that twenty-two, either. I know it! Asey, who swiped that gun from the living room?"

"You ought to be able to guess more about that than me," Asey said. "You was there. So was Hanson."

"Well, it's Hanson's fault!" Cumming's said defensively. "I brought the gun there, but he ought to have known enough to take it back when he left. Someone must have sneaked it out of that fancy case—well, someone had every chance. They could have taken it any one of half a dozen times when the living room was empty, before you came back with Mrs. Butterfield."

"Clutterfield."

"Butterfield, Clutterfield, what does it matter!" Cummings said wearily. "You know who I mean—and suppose—my God, I'm tired of supposing! Let's get back to the Inn. You got any plans now?"

"I wonder," Asey said, as they walked through the beach grass, "what time an oldest inhabitant gets up? Early as six, you think?"

Cummings stopped and stared at him and shook his head.

"Are you stark mad, Asey? Jennie told me how you raved and raved about a tomato pincushion, and then hurled yourself out of an upstairs window!"

"I feel fine," Asey said, "except I'm hungry an' I'm tired. But havin' hung on this thing this far, I'm goin' to see it through to the bitter end."

"Of course," Cummings said, "those clothes you have on make you look different—Asey, where in blazes are your shoes, man! Why are you going around barefoot? You haven't—look here, you haven't joined a cult, have you?"

Asey grinned.

"Nope. I had shoes, but I shed 'em for some second-story work, an' I had socks, but they got so torn while I was patterin' around huntin' Horace, I shed them, too. Let's see, now, I could rouse Bram Reid an' talk to him, even though I don't think he knows a thing about this masqueradin'. I ought to talk—"

"Have you forgotten Miss Olive entirely?" Cummings interrupted acidly. "She's missing, you know!"

"Uh-huh, but one of Hanson's troopers said that a description of her an' her car'd been put over the teletype, an' it seems to me that ought to bring her to light sooner or later. Doc, if Angie Harris's aged mother can only remember about Ferdinand's picture of Old Whiskers an' the baby, I'm goin' to be a lot happier about this, I think!"

"Mad!" Cummings said unhappily. "Stark, staring mad! Mad as a hatter—what's the matter with her?"

He pointed to Jennie, who was running down the path to meet them.

"I seen you," she said breathlessly. "I been waitin' for you—Asey, there's a soldier up there to the Inn! D'you suppose he's after me for bustin' up that line at the four corners? Do you?"

"No," Asey said. "I'm sure he ain't. He's Freddy Doane's boy friend."

"Oh, my!" Jennie fanned herself with her hand. "My, I been all a twitter! Asey, I guess you better just drive me home! If what I been through since six last night is detectin', then I don't want no more of it, ever! Will you drive me home?"

"Sure. By the time I got you home an' had a bite to eat," Asey said, "I guess even the oldest inhabitant ought to be up an stirrin' —what is it?"

Jennie drew him to one side, out of earshot of the doctor.

Jennie's Sin

"ASEY, will you do something for me before we go? I feel terrible about it. Kind of ashamed. But I went back up in Miss Olive's room, again, after I was there with you. Just to look around again, that's all. But I played with them Venitian blinds—I know I hadn't ought to of. But I did. An'—an'—"

"An' what? Don't look so downcast, Jennie! What happened?"

"I broke 'em," Jennie said in a small voice. "Asey, you suppose you could mend the old things?"

"I guess I maybe most likely could," Asey told her. "Sure."

"Can you? So's Mrs. Doane won't know? She's looked down her nose at me so much already, I don't know's I could stand her smirkin' at me any more! Could you manage to slip up an' fix 'em now, before we go home?"

"I'll take a whack at 'em," Asey said. "Was it one of the tapes that busted, or the roller gadget that angles 'em, or what?"

"I don't know what it was, but I got the pieces right here." Jennie opened her pocketbook. "They almost been burnin' a hole in me! They sort of popped an' scattered around all over the floor, an' you should of seen me scurryin' to pick 'em up an' put 'em in my pocketbook before somebody come! I been so worried—I hate bustin' other people's things! Here. Here's the spring part. Here's a metal thing. Here's that round part like a fountain pen, an' this other big piece, an' here's the two little pieces. There! You think you can fix it up?"

Asey stared down at the six pieces she had deposited in his hand.

"What's the matter?" Jennie demanded. "Oh, dear! Can't you fix it so's she won't ever know what I done?"

"Jennie, where did these come from? From a Venetian blind?"

"Yes," Jennie said miserably. "I was fiddlin' with it, an'— Asey, come back here! Come back here—Doc, yell at him to come back here!"

"No use," Cummings said. "Man's mad. Can't do a thing with him. Going barefoot, you notice that?"

By the time they reached the Inn, Asey was striding toward his roadster, talking earnestly to Washy Doane, and before they could do more than yell at him the Porter streaked out of the driveway.

Cummings shook his head and frowned.

"Usually when he drives that way, he's got something!" he said. "Washy, what did he say to you? Did he make sense?"

"Told me he wanted his shoes," Washy said. "I picked 'em up when he kicked 'em off last night. I give him the shoes, an' off he went — Doc, ain't anyone found out yet where Miss Olive went?"

"Nobody," Cummings said, "has found out nothing—I mean, anything! My God, how do I get mixed up in this kind of thing?"

"I wish," Cummings said slowly, "I wish I knew if he'd really got this, or if he's as daft as he seems. I guess, Jennie, that I'll sit down and wait with you!"

At noon they were still waiting for Asey, and Washy Doane was still audibly wondering where Miss Olive could be.

It was after one o'clock when the Porter slipped into the driveway.

Local Employment Unit Gets $8,766 for Year

Albany, Dec. 29. — Unemployment insurance benefits distributed to unemployed men and women in New York state during November totaled $3,791,972, according to a report issued today by Industrial Commissioner Frieda S. Miller. This amount was disbursed by means of 309,251 individual checks. Benefits were five percent greater than in October, 1941, and 35 percent less than those of November, 1940.

November payments for the Kingston employment office amounted to $8,766 for the 1941-1942 benefit year, in the form of 743 separate checks. The average benefit payment for a single week of unemployment in the Kingston area was $11.61 for the month.

An eight percent increase in benefit payments to New York city claimants increased 72 percent compared with October, 1941, and constituted nearly a third of all benefits disbursed during the month. Twenty-six of the 60 offices outside of New York city reported increased benefit payments during November. However, with the exception of Rochester, which is also an important clothing center, these offices were located in communities affected by seasonal slackening of resort activities and, in some cases, by shortages of materials.

List of Several Contributors To Local Red Cross Chapter

Contributions Made in Red Cross Campaign to Raise $45,000 in Ulster County

The war seems to be right at the door of Ulster county, when we read of our boys at Pearl Harbor and Hawaii and the Philippines. We can all help these boys and all of our young men in the army, navy and air corps by subscribing to the American Red Cross.

The American Red Cross headquarters in Washington, has given Ulster county a quota of $45,000. Ulster county has not failed in the past when asked to give for an emergency, when the catastrophe was not right in our midst. Now that it is brought home to us, we feel certain that the people of the county will respond most generously.

Contributions are coming in at the office at 237 Fair street and we know we will meet our quota. The committee is getting the county organized and in the very near future, every one who has not contributed through the office at 237 Fair street, to this most worthy cause, will be called upon by one of the many workers who are willingly giving of their time to canvass the county from door to door. Do not refuse to give no matter how small your contribution may be, it will be accepted with thanks just as much as the greater contributions and all added together, Ulster county will go over the top once again.

Night Clubs Offer Special Free Services

New York, Dec. 30 (AP)—From New York's glittering night clubs came word today of elaborate plans to offer New Year's Eve frolickers such choice services as free shaves and hangover cures.

The pace in these spots reaches a peak at the turn of the year and the proprietors, rubbing their hands at $20 per person tops, take no chances on unhappy customers (or on having none at all).

Lures include a barber and full tonsorial equipment, installed in one place for the benefit of those who wish to freshen up a bit as the night wears on. Another is a "hangover bar."

An oyster bar has ordered 100,000 oysters to toss in its famous hangover stew. One club plans to park a milk wagon outside, with an attendant handing a bottle of milk to each departing celebrant.

Three chauffeurs will be on hand outside another spot to lend assistance to motoring guests.

In some places, cash awards await patrons contributing the best New Year resolutions.

Smoke Eater Wanted

Albany, Dec. 30—A smoke-eater to guard life and property at one of Uncle Sam's extra-territorial defense bases is listed today as "wanted" by the New York State Employment Service. The public employment agency is canvassing the state for a fire chief to organize and supervise an army base fire-fighting company, with full responsibility for determining the size of staff and types of equipment needed, and for training and disciplining personnel. Expert knowledge of the latest methods of fire prevention and control is required, and the Employment Service thinks it may find the man for the job among fire engineers who have had insurance company experience, or among responsible officers in fire departments throughout the state. Applications are being accepted at all State Employment Service offices.

Good Taste Today

By Emily Post

(Author of "Etiquette," "The Personality of a House," "The Blue Book of Social Usage," etc.)

TALL GIRL SHOULD MAKE HER HEIGHT AN ASSET

"Gracious, but Mary is tall!" "She takes after her Aunt Maisie, doesn't she?" "If she doesn't soon stop growing she'll be even taller than Maisie."

"This," writes Mary, "is the kind of thing I hear all the time from my mother's friends. I AM very tall! But why must everyone keep talking about it? Aunt Maisie is not the kind of aunt that a girl would want to be like. I'm sure she's never had a good time or even had a man want to marry her because she is so tall. Anyway, I wish people would stop talking about my looking like her. I'm beginning to feel they may be right. I'm appealing to you, Mrs. Post, to help put an end to the way older people go blithely on, pointing out my likeness to Aunt Maisie, as though I were deaf or witless—or both."

I am of course very glad to print the fact that making such remarks even before young children, is bad manners, and before older ones, inexcusable. But that the tactless will take it to heart is doubtful.

However, there is much I would like to say to Mary. First, I do not believe that your aunt's tallness was her real handicap—though her attitude toward it may have been! It is true that height is conspicuous and therefore exaggerates defects. But it also exaggerates beauty—just as effectively.

Therefore, don't try to look shorter by standing hump-backed and knee-bent! Don't shrink mentally and develop a feeling of inferiority. Make your height an asset. To do this, you must pay attention to posture, to perfect grooming, and to the presentation of your own type. And for encouragement, you might remember that the highest-paid models are tall—some of the most famous, very tall.

Send Separate Envelopes

Dear Mrs. Post: How can one invitation be addressed to a brother and sister, who live at home? The other members of the family are strangers to me and I don't wish to include them.

Answer: Unless strict economy is absolutely necessary, they should be sent separate envelopes. If this is not permissible, the envelope would have to be addressed:

Miss Mary Smith
Mr. John Smith

This is not given as being socially correct, but merely as a suggestion as to how to overcome the handicap of having no invitation for him.

So many requests have been made for copies of my article on details concerned with training camps (behavior of visitors and presents for the men), that I have had it printed as a leaflet and will be very glad to send it to anyone who sends me a self-addressed, three-cent stamped envelope in care of The Kingston Daily Freeman, Post Office Box 75, Station O, New York, N. Y. Leaflets cannot be mailed unless self-addressed envelope bears correct amount of postage.

Milk Hearing Dates Are Given by Cladakes

New York, Dec. 30 (AP)—Payments to farmers for fluid-use milk would be boosted nearly two cents a quart under one of 84 proposed changes to the federal-state milk marketing orders slated for hearings next month in Brooklyn, Utica and Binghamton.

Milk circles believed today that should such an increase—embodied in a proposal to jack up the price of class 1 milk about 75 cents a hundredweight the year round—be granted, it would be passed along to consumers, as in the past.

Metropolitan Milk Market Administrator N. J. Cladakis yesterday set these dates for the hearings: Brooklyn, January 7, 8, 9; Utica, January 12, 13, 14; Binghamton, January 15, 16, 17.

Sponsoring the amendment calling for higher prices are the Dairymen's League Cooperative Association, Dairy Farmers Union, Associated Independents, Metropolitan Cooperative Milk Producers Bargaining Agency and Eastern Milk Producers Cooperative Association.

This bloc also proposes that the New York marketing orders be extended through central and eastern New York; central, northern and eastern Pennsylvania, and northern New Jersey.

Nazi Agents Have Sabotaged Output Of Bolivian Tin

Story of Treachery Comes Out, Because Latest Plot Has Been Discovered

(A brief news item from Buenos Aires recently told of the thwarting of a German plot to sabotage the railroad carrying strategic minerals from Bolivian mines to Chilean and Peruvian seaports for shipment to the United States. How this plotting had been carried on for six months is told in the following story by John Lear, Wide World reporter recently returned from a South American assignment.)

By JOHN LEAR

Washington, Dec. 30 (World Wide)—German agents, working in the thin cool air of Cloudland land Islands 5,000 miles away and three miles up in the sky, have been sabotaging the United States fighting machine for the last six months in Bolivia.

They have been slowing up, bit by bit, the output of tin without which there can be no bearing to swing guns, move tanks, propel battleships.

The story of their treachery can be told now that their boldest move, attempted rupture of the railroad on which the tin travels from Bolivian interior mines to seaports in Chile and Peru, has been foiled and their plotting revealed and nullified.

The general methods of the saboteurs have been known to the state department and the army for months.

Late last spring the United States legation in Lapaz confirmed from other sources information given to me on a tour of the Bolivian mining regions.

At that time, German mine foremen outspokenly sympathetic to the Nazi cause were discovered to be slowing down tin production through their influence on Indian miners.

There was no apparent explanation for these slowdowns, no reason for them which engineers responsible for mine production could discover. But the mine books showed tin output fell between 20 and 50 per cent after President Roosevelt proclaimed all-out help to England.

The books, which were opened to me, showed that the slowdowns were occurring only in mine shafts under German technical supervision.

The situation then was considered sufficiently serious that young United States engineers were planted among the Germans to get evidence of the sabotage and to prevent any calamitous shortage.

These counter-espionage agents reported that the Germans were not only talking discouragement to the Indians but were actively fomenting strikes and organizing Nazi cells within the mining camps.

One young engineer took me into the mines on the chilly sides of Bolivia's 14,000 to 15,000 foot plateaus—so high up it is difficult for strangers to breathe and overexertion becomes dangerous—and introduced me to some of the men he said were causing the trouble.

They spoke German among themselves, Spanish to the Indians.

I heard one of them argue with his boss for half an hour in favor of delaying a special piece of work intended to speed up mine operations to meet the increasing wartime demand.

My escort told me the persons suspected of sabotage had come to Bolivia years ago and worked themselves up to responsible positions where they were in charge of vital mine machinery which could stop production dead within a few minutes if something "went wrong."

If something did go wrong it would take at least three or four months to get going again.

But the Germans were in highly paid jobs, under long term contract with heavy penalties for the employer in event of dismissal.

Often proof of sabotage would have nullified the penalty clauses, but that was hard to get. The Nazis did their work in subtle psychological ways, emphasizing ancient grievances of the Indian workers against North American and British pioneers who had opened up the modern mines a generation ago.

The United States declaration of war against the Axis powers gives the Bolivian government grounds for rounding up the Germans as a wartime precaution, thus removing mine owners from the threat of dismissal penalties.

It is fortunate for the United States that this is so, because Bolivia's tin production becomes increasingly important to this country as a result of war with Japan. Much United States tin previously came from the East Indies, and trade routes in that direction are now unreliable.

Has Year's Supply

The United States has a full year's supply of tin on hand. England, which shares the Bolivian output, is also in good shape. A low grade tin smelter is being built in Texas to speed tin's travel from mine ore to finished bearings or tinplate.

The railroad which the saboteurs attempted to wreck, however, involves more than a problem of tin. It is the only route for bringing Bolivia's other strategic minerals — steel-hardening tungsten, airplane steel conditioning molybdium, antimony, copper, lead zinc, bismuth, nickle, cobalt, sulphur and oil—out to the ports of Africa and Antofogasta in Chile and Mollendo in Peru.

It is the only railroad crossing the South American continent. As such, it could be used to ship arms and men from the Pacific to the Atlantic coast (the road's eastern terminus is Buenos Aires) in case anything should happen to the Panama Canal.

Discovery of the sabotage plot shows that Bolivia, which has already ejected Germany's Minister Ernest Wendler for fifth column activity, is on the alert. That will mean short shrift for Axis agents, in or out of working clothes.

Woman Is Injured As Stove Explodes

Mrs. Mary Lloyd of 16 West Chester street was injured, but not seriously, when the gas range in the kitchen exploded shortly after 11 o'clock this morning. Mrs. Lloyd was struck on her body by the door of the oven of the gas range.

According to the report of the fire department she had turned on the gas in the oven of the gas range, closed the oven door, and then had lighted one of the plates on top of the gas range. As the gas ignited the gas that had accumulated from the open jets in the oven exploded, blowing part of the stove apart.

The oven door opens outward from the top and she was standing in front of the stove when the door blew open, striking her.

The fire department stated that the force of the blow had not injured Mrs. Lloyd seriously.

New York, Dec. 30 (AP)—The stock market today snapped back into one of the best rallies of the year.

Overriding persistent heavy tax selling, leaders ran up 1 to 2 points generally and a few as much as 7 or more. The buying bulge developed after initial irregularity. Near the final hour quotations were at or near the top. Dealings were speedy at intervals, although there were slowdowns, and transfers were at the rate of about 2,700,000 shares.

Reinvestment demand, based partly on the idea the retreat of the list to a bottom level since April, 1938, may have been overdone, apparently was the principal trend stimulator, brokers said. War news was virtually ignored as the rush got under way to retrieve many sold-out favorites.

Rail loans led a come-back in the bond department. Commodities pushed higher.

American telephone showed the way for climbing stocks. This bellwether jumped more than 7 and was around 14 points above its last week's low. In the forward ranks were U. S. Steel, Chrysler, General Motors, Santa Fe, Southern Pacific, U. S. Rubber common and preferred, Standard Oil (N. J.), American Can, Westinghouse, Allied Chemical and Sears Roebuck.

On the upward path in the curb were Aluminum of America, Crole Petroleum, American Gas and Pittsburgh Plate Glass.

Left-Handed Star Is Main Threat to Duke Blue Devils

Coach Wade Is Planning to Stop Don Durdan of Oregon State on Thursday

Durham, N. C., Dec. 30 (AP)—Coach Wallace Wade is doing his best to make sure that the high polished Duke football machine won't be wrecked in the Rose Bowl Thursday by a left-handed monkey wrench, tossed by Oregon State.

The westerners have such a monkey wrench in Don Durdan, a southpaw who passes left-handed and kicks left-footed.

Lon Stiner, coach of Oregon State, had high hopes that the unorthodox delivery of his star mail carrier would befuddle the Dukes.

But Wade, who tries to think of everything, is teaching his boys all he can about left-handed backs. George McAfee, perhaps the best southpaw triple-threat in the country, has been working out with the Blue Devils for the last three days.

It may be some comfort to Stiner and his squad to learn that McAfee has had considerable success against the Blue Devils. However, it's hard to tell whether this success should be attributed to the idosyncrasies of a southpaw or to natural ability.

Yesterday, for example, George romped through the varsity with the greatest of ease. Sometimes the big Duke would crash through and nail him before he got started, but if McAfee danced into the clear nobody could bring him down.

Wade, however, seemed fairly pleased with the work of his regulars.

Three Games Have Taught Gridiron Coach to Go Easy

'Dutch' Meyer of T. C. U. Not Working His Boys Too Hard for Orange Bowl Engagement

Miami, Fla., Dec. 30 (AP)—Three winning New Year's Day football battles have taught Coach Dutch Meyer of Texas Christian that hard work may breed success—but not in bowl games.

That's why the Horned Frogs have been taking things comparatively easy in preparation for their Orange Bowl encounter with Georgia Thursday.

"Too much hard work is bad," explained Meyer, "the first time we were invited, I resumed practice too soon. I learned that was bad, too."

T.C.U. arrived Sunday, two days later than much-drilled Georgia, and started short one-a-day workouts. The team scrimmaged three times, before leaving Fort Worth, and only once here.

Three Men Are Indicted On Alleged Fraud Deal

New York, Dec. 29 (Special)—An indictment handed up to Judge Henry W. Goddard in United States District Court here today charges three men with defrauding Mrs. E. O. Allen of 59 St. James street, Kingston, in a real estate scheme. The defendants are Herbert E. McGoldrick, James M. Blasser and 'John Doe," alias Frank Carnahan.

Mrs. Allen and several other victims were allegedly told that the defendants were in the real estate business in Atlantic City and in Boston and that they had holdings there they wished to unload but that they were prevented from doing so by liens on the properties. The properties were valuable but cash was needed to clear the liens. They therefore offered to repay those who loaned them the money at a handsome rate after the sales were completed. The government claims that there was no basis for the defendants' claims and that the whole scheme was a fraud. The three men will be arraigned for pleading shortly.

Army Withdraws

Bendix, N. J., Dec. 30 (AP)—The 60-days of army occupation of Air Associates, Inc., are ended and the aviation equipment plant, scene of nearly a half year of bitter labor dispute, is once again under private management. Seventy troops, last of 2,000 who seized the plant and grounds October 31 under presidential proclamation to end the third strike in three months at Air Associates, clambered into trucks and rolled out of the area yesterday.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

(Wide World Sports Columnist)

New York, Dec. 30 (Wide World)—Signs of the times: The title defense which Welterweight Champion Freddie Cochrane has promised to make for Mike Jacobs in February may never come off. Freddie has asked the navy for a month's furlough to get ready for it and nobody seems to be listening to him . . . the pro football teams may encourage their players to take defense jobs so they'll be around next fall, when they can practice evenings and play Sundays . . . Buck Weaver of the Louisville Times comes up with the swell suggestion that everyone who listens to the bowl games on the air should buy $1 worth of defense stamps as a "ticket" to a game that would cost him five bucks or so to see . . . Norfolk's Ocean View Golf Association members voted unanimously for a proposition requiring each member to buy at least one $25 defense bond.

Schwartz at the Bat

John Beer of the Newark Sunday Call tells this one on Gus Schwartz, noted slugger of the Newark sandlots . . . seems he went up in the Jersey hills to play a game at High Bridge one day . . . when the opposing flinger cut the plate with his first pitch, Gus wasn't ready, but he heard the umpire shout "ball" . . . another perfect pitch brought the same result . . . Gus didn't take his bat off his shoulder all afternoon and always reached first . . . after the game, the ump told him: "I know all about you as a hitter, Schwartz. When you didn't swing I knew they were no good."

One-Minute Sports Page

Jake Weber, veteran Fordham trainer, says the four-minute mile never will be run because such speed would be too much of a strain on the human heart . . . the "no pass" rule won't be in effect at Tropical Park for the New Year's morning card. The track will give out 20,000 free tickets . . . the stout gentleman rooting for Wyoming's basketballers at the Garden last night was Steve Owen of the football Giants, who used to play on the same grid team as Everett Selton, Wyoming coach . . . when a Dutch ship docked at Hampton Roads, Va., the other day, one of the first orders sent ashore was for 14 soccer pants . . . when a publicity man for the San Diego pro football club started to phone news of his team's doings to a Tiajuana (Mex.) radio station, he got as far as "the San Diego bombers . . ." when a censor interrupted, "sorry, you are to discuss no military information."

Service Dept.

Joe Manzo, former Boston College grid star, played 22 games this fall—10 for Camp Croft (S. C). and 12 for Roanoke (Va.) pro team . . . four players on the second field artillery basketball team, winner of the Canal Zone title, hail from western Pennsylvania . . . Buddy Lewis, ex-Washington third sacker, has been made a squad leader at the armored force replacement center, Fort Knox, Ky. . . . Major Emmett O'Donnell, Jr., who shot down four Japanese planes in the Philippines, is the same Detroit fan who got Mickey Cochrane interested in flying . . . Joe Gallagher, who used to belong to the Dodgers, is driving a truck at Camp Lee (Va.) and recently turned down a soft job in the Recreation Department.

Bums-Cards, DiMag Streak Are Highlights

By DILLON GRAHAM
Sports Editor, (AP) Feature Service

NEW YORK—Only in Brooklyn could such a fantastic World Series climax nave happened: Tommy Henrich fanned for the third Yankee out in the ninth inning and the Dodgers apparently were tied with New York at two victories each but—

Catcher Mickey Owen let hurler Hugh Casey's wide curve get away and before he could retrieve it Henrich was at first and the game was still alive.

That historic error probably cost Brooklyn its chances of winning the fall classic, for the Yankees promptly belted four runs across to win and take a 3-1 lead in games. Next day the Yanks, behind young Ernie Bonham, whipped Whitlow Wyatt for the clincher and won their fifth championship in six years.

The New Yorkers had taken the opener with veteran Charley Ruffing, while Wyatt copped the second for Brooklyn. The third was a heart-breaker for the Dodgers: Fat Freddie Fitzsimmons, hoping at 40 for the World Series victory that had been denied him five years earlier when he was with the Giants, was locked in a pitcher's duel with young Marius Russo for seven scoreless innings.

Fitz Blasted

Then a low liner off Russo's bat struck old Fitz just below the knee. Limping with pain, Fitz retired and the Yanks hopped on his successor. Casey for the winning runs. Then came the fourth game with Owen's error and Casey's even more damaging later grooved pitch to Charley Keller which went for a double and a victory for the American leaguers.

Joe Gordon, fancy Yankee second baseman, was the series hitting star, with a .500 average, while Joe DiMaggio, American league runs-batted-in leader, and Dolph Camilli, who won the same honor as well as the homer crown in the National, were disappointments at bat.

Throughout the regular campaign, Brooklyn's season - long dogfight with the Cardinals for first place and Joe Di Maggio's 56-game record-breaking consecutive game hitting streak captivated the interest of the fans.

Neck And Neck

From the second week on neither the Dodgers nor the Cardinals were ever worse than second. It was strictly a two-team race and, although plagued by injuries, the Cardinals, featuring such crack rookies as Ernie White, Frank Crespi and Walker Cooper, made it a battle until the closing days. Brooklyn, in winning, wound up with practically all team hitting honors, as well as the league batting champion, young Pete Reiser with a .343 average, and a pair of 22-game winning pitchers in Wyatt and Kirby Higbe.

Cleveland, pre-season favorite, was off to a good start but faltered before the Yankees' mid-season drive, sparked by DiMaggio's consistent hitting, and then slipped badly down to fourth position. The Indians' ace, Bob Feller, led all league pitchers in games won.

Defending Champs Fall

Both of last year's pennant winners flopped. Cincinnati slid to third while Detroit, with slugger Hank Greenberg in the Army and pitcher Buck Newson in a prolonged slump, dropped to a fourth place tie with Cleveland. The surprising White Sox were third, behind the Boston Red Sox.

Ted Williams, slender young Boston outfielder, was one of the year's individual stars. Williams, whose ninth-inning homer gave the American a 7-5 triumph in the All-Star game, sported a better than .400 average most of the season. He dropped below just at the end but banged out six hits the last day to gain a .406 mark, the first batsman since 1930 to hit better than .400. Williams also led in homers with 37. DiMaggio led the junior circuit in runs batted in with 125 while Lon Warneke of St. Louis pitched the only no-hit game of the season, against Cincinnati, and the veteran Bob Grove hang up major league pitching victory No. 300. Most valuable player awards went to Joe DiMaggio and Dolph Camilli.

Three managerial changes came late in the year when the Indians pushed Roger Peckinpaugh into the front office and selected 24-year-old Lou Boudreau, shortstop, as field boss; the Phillies named 60-year-old Hans Lobert to succeed Doc Prothro, who went to Memphis, and the New York Giants picked Mel Ott, veteran outfielder, as manager and made Bill Terry supervisor of their farm system.

Manager McNally Believes Recs Will Get Revenge in Saratoga Game Thursday

Sugar Bowl Clash Probably Will Be Wild, Woolly Game

Both Fordham, Missouri Are Specialists; Rams Have Rugged Aerial Attack Ready

New Orleans, Dec. 30 (AP)—If Canal street had cats on every corner, the uncertainty of where they'd jump would be no greater than Thursday's Sugar Bowl quarrel between Fordham University and Missouri.

To New Orleans' curbstone authorities and thousands of football-minded visitors from the east and middle-west, it added up to just one answer: Probably the wildest, wooliest Sugar Bowl game ever played in the 73,000-seat stadium. Betting favored Missouri by the unprofitable margin of 6 to 5.

Each team is a specialist, and that specialty is the other's weakness. Missouri, an exponent of the old battleship strategy of power, has a great running attack. Fordham, in the past, has found that sort of power troublesome.

Fordham has built its attack around aerial bombardment, with Fullback Steve Filipowicz as chief bombardier. That sort of overhead warfare has given Missouri fits.

Filipowicz completed 37 of 101 tries for 722 yards last fall pitching mostly to Jim Blumenstock and Jim Noble. That was only a little short of one third the total yardage made by Fordham all season.

Missouri, meanwhile, made its record on the ground, piling up 2,771 yards by rushing and only 339 by passing. The Tigers completed just 15 passes all year. Half of their 34 touchdowns came on runs of 20 yards or more.

Les MacMitchell Awarded Sullivan Trophy This Year

600 Sport Critics Vote Honor to Outstanding Amateur Athlete; N. Y. U. Senior

New York, Dec. 30 (AP)—Leslie MacMitchell, who scored a virtual grand slam in cross country and mile running during 1941, is the winner of the James E. Sullivan award, annually given the nation's outstanding amateur athlete.

By a vote of 600 sports critics polled by the Amateur Athletic Union, the New York University senior became the first native of the empire state and the youngest athlete ever to win the honor.

During the past season MacMitchell, at 21, completed his fourth year of collegiate cross country without a defeat and in track annexed the NCAA mile, both the indoor and outdoor IC4A crowns and the AAU 1,500-meter, or metric mile, championship.

High-Riding Spa Cagers Trail Albany by Half Game for 1st Place in State League

If Manager Jim McNally of the Kingston Recreations has his way, the game with Saratoga Thursday night, New Year's night, at the municipal auditorium, already has been salted away as a victory for the Recs.

"We're out to win this one," said McNally. "We suffered a bad break in the last game with Saratoga which we lost. It could have gone either way. With a few breaks in our favor for a change, we should be able to stop the Spa club."

As McNally continued on he believed that the Recs have just as good a ball club as any other in the league. "It's true," said McNally, "that we should have some more insurance at one of the forward positions. However, until that aid comes, we'll be out fighting it out to the last ditch."

Saratoga's first victory over Kingston seems to be the topic for this coming game. This should add a lot of new rivalry to the battle. Since that defeat the Recreations have been determined to get revenge in the next meeting.

There's a possibility that Saratoga will get the Recs on the rebound after the Troy engagement. The Recs floundered around in the first two periods of that tussle. They finally got going in the final quarter and nearly overtook the Monitors.

Local fans who have been watching the Recs in action agree that another capable well-known player of the Si Boardman type at the forward position, would do wonders for the club.

The Recreations are well fortified in other positions. Jac McGuirk is doing his share at one of the forward berths. Al Benson at center, Jerry Rizzo and Jim Buckley at guards, also have been doing a good job. That one position, unable to be filled by Carl Malfitano or Jim McNally, remains. If that were filled there's no telling what strength the Recs would show.

According to the department of recreation, reserved seat tickets are selling faster for this game than on Christmas night. There was a near sell-out of reserved seat ducats for the holiday game. Tickets may be secured by calling 1682.

O'Doul to Begin Coaching Cooper For Gehrig Role

Hollywood, Dec. 30 (AP) — To Frank (Lefty) O'Doul, manager of the San Francisco Seals and former New York Giant outfielder, goes the task of coaching Gary Cooper for his role of Lou Gehrig in the film version of the late Yankee first baseman's career.

O'Doul, retained by Sam Goldwyn as technical adviser on the picture, will have as his first assignment teaching Cooper to throw and bat left-handed.

Babe Ruth has been signed to play himself in the picture and is expected here within two weeks.

Charlie Neff Joins Army After Cage Game Friday Night

Popular Sports Figure Has Been Feature of High Falls Five This Season

Charlie Neff, who is one of the most popular sports figures in this section, engages in his final basketball game of the season Friday night after which he will leave for service in the army.

Neff, a member of the Kingston Recreations baseball team for a number of years, is now spending the winter months playing basketball with the High Falls Firemen. The Firemen play the College All Stars Friday night in High Falls and a large turnout is expected to attend the game to say farewell for the time to Charlie.

Losing Neff to the army means a sad blow to the hosehandlers. In two games this year Neff scored 43 points. Last week he didn't play and High Falls lost.

The attraction Friday night will bring the College All Stars, a team composed of college players who last year gave the Firemen a trimming. High Falls is out for revenge this year.

For the All-Stars, there will be Joe Garland, who defeated the Fallsmen last week; Andy Murphy, Allen, Smith, Rizinski and Tommy Maines.

At 7:30 o'clock the High Falls Juniors will play.

Nocando Bowlers To Dine Tonight

Mid-Season Banquet at Hotel Eichler

At the Hotel Eichler tonight at 7 o'clock the Emerick's Nocando Bowling League will hold its mid-season banquet. A sirloin steak supper will be served.

Peter Keresman, president of the Kingston Bowling Association, will be the guest speaker. Other speakers are expected to be heard.

Following the banquet and the awarding of prizes, there will be a re-shuffling of teams in the league.

Hutson Reports Today

Garden City, N. Y., Dec. 30 (AP)—Except for Don Hutson, Green Bay end, and Marshall Goldberg, Chicago Cardinal back, all of the National All-Star football players were in camp today. Hutson may arrive in time for the day's workout but Goldberg is being kept in Chicago by war work and may miss Sunday's game with the Chicago Bears.

College Football Caused No Deaths in 1941 Season

First in 11 Years That No Player Sacrificed Life; 14 Deaths in 'Sand Lot' Games

Detroit, Dec. 30 (AP)—Not a single death attributed to football occurred in the nation's ranks of 65,690 college players during the 1941 season.

It was the first year in an 11-year period that no collegian sacrificed his life, either directly or indirectly, because of the gridiron game.

This cheerful report was presented to the joint meeting today of the American Football Coaches Association and National Collegiate Athletic Association by Dr. Floyd R. Eastwood, of Purdue University's School of Physical Education for Men. Members of the two associations discussed the possible effects of the war on intercollegiate athletics and heard addresses on the question: "How can collegiate athletics best contribute to the national crisis?"

A slight increase in deaths occurred among so-called "sand lot" athletic club players which brought to 14 the total number of fatalities. There were 11 last year and 33 in the peak year of 1931.

Of the 14 deaths, five occurred among "sand lot" players over whom there was no medical supervision; three at athletic clubs and six in high schools.

Columbia's Lou Little, chairman of the coaches' rules committee, said the fewest suggestions for changes in the rule book were made since the body was organized 10 years ago. The suggested changes will be recommended to the N.C.A.A. rules committee at its meeting in Phoeniz, Ariz., January 4.

New Changes Suggested

They include:

The team scored upon by either a touchdown or field goal is to have optional choice of goal. This is designed to create offensive balance, Little said, particularly when the wind advantage is great.

Clarification of the substitution rule to remove the possibility of the so-called sleeper play.

Revision of the lateral pass rule which nullifies a play downfield when the ball is passed forward. The coaches would make this a five-yard penalty from the point of infraction. Now the ball is returned to the line of scrimmage.

Placing a penalty for sending a substitute on the field after the offensive team has left the huddle or gone into formation. Penalty: Loss of a time out.

Revision of the substitution rules to permit players to report to any one of the officials.

Moonlight Softens City's First Blackout

Freeman Photos

lights, it was not until the street lights were snuffed out that all of the houses, with but one or two exceptions, were plunged into darkness.

While the street lights were extinguished and the house lights out, the air wardens and their assistants patrolled the streets of the city, while Boy Scouts in groups of two guarded each of the fire alarm boxes in the city so that no one would be tempted to turn in a false alarm of fire.

Citizens throughout the city also refrained from using the telephone during the blackout period, and telephone calls were but few. At police headquarters only two telephone calls were received during the test period.

All of the air wardens, post and sector wardens, were equipped with flashlights with blue bulbs, but owing to the brilliant moonlight that illuminated the streets the flashlights were hardly needed.

As the street lights were snapped off all auto traffic on the streets pulled up to the curb and extinguished their lights. Practically the only cars moving on the streets during the blackout were the police cars which sent forth a blue light from their headlights. So alert were the wardens that several of the police cars were halted, but as soon as it was seen that they were police cars their were permitted to proceed.

Chief of Police Charles Phinney, Mayor-elect William F. Edelmuth, Captain L. S. Miller and General Thomas W. Darrah, who is defense director of the southern New York State Civilian Defense Council, made a tour of the city in a police car and found all of the air wardens and their assistants on the alert.

In some sections of the city the air wardens found it necessary to request a householder who had forgotten to extinguish a single light to do so, but as a whole it was almost a 100 per cent compliance with the blackout orders by the citizens of Kingston.

Chief Phinney said this morning that he desired to thank the parents especially for keeping the children off the streets during the blackout.

Air wardens in the business sections of the city said it was an interesting sight to see all of the illuminated Neon signs in front of business houses suddenly extinguished as the street lights went out.

One air warden on central Broadway said that he could look up and down Broadway for a considerable distance and that when the street lights went off all of the business houses were plunged in darkness and there was not a light visible for the entire distance.

Bridge Lights Extinguished

On the West Chestnut street hill those who sat at their windows saw an interesting sight as all of the lights on the Rondout Creek Bridge were extinguished and the only lights visible were the street and houselights twinkling through the trees on the other side of the Rondout creek.

During the progress of the blackout Mayor C. J. Heiselman, chairman of the home defense counsel, Alderman-at-large John J. Schwenk and other city officials viewed the test from the city hall tower while some of the city officials were out on the roof of the building.

They said it was a wonderful sight to see the sudden extinguishment of all street and house lights throughout the city.

In the central section of the city the only industrial plant that remained illuminated during the blackout was the Electrol plant which is busy on war orders, and who had been granted permission to continue working throughout the blackout.

One out of town man who was anxious to get back to his duties during the blackout period had a difficult time as he was halted in practically every block. He was forced to explain who he was and what his duties were before he was allowed to proceed.

In the uptown business district, as well as in the other business districts, there was almost instant compliance with the blackout regulations. A glance up and down Wall street showed that cooperation was complete. One place of business showed a faint trace of red light through darkened windows, but that was done away when a patrolman notified the proprietor that the light was visible from the outside.

Court House Darkened

At the court house, where Sheriff Molyneaux and others were gathered, the sirens were not audible and it was not until the absence of street lights gave the signal that Night Jailor Ellsworth threw the switch that plunged the whole building into darkness.

The duty of guarding entrances to the city was handled by Sheriff Molyneaux and deputies who had been stationed on all the roads leading to the city. Deputies in charge of this feature of the blackout were Segelken, Mellert, Vredenburg, Winne, Reynolds, O'Brien, Young, Gillmore, Wells and McCullough. The men had orders to let no one move into the city after the alarm had been sounded and according to all reports these orders were carried out to the letter.

The deputies reported general coooperation on the part of the traveling public, with most of the automobilists apparently aware of what was going on. Two or three instances were encountered which went to show what it means to have normal conditions of travel interrupted. In one case the deputy was forced to halt for the 15-minute period a man who was on his way to the railroad station and who said he was employed on the mail train. In another instance a driver told the officer on duty that he had just received word that his wife was very sick at the hospital and he was anxious to reach her bedside as soon as possible. He, too, was halted until the all-clear alarm sounded.

Air raid wardens on Fair street this morning reported one exception to the general observance to the black-out regulation. It was a third-floor apartment where lights were blazing and a radio was playing. Persistent ringing of the door bell and other attempts to gain the attention of the occupants of the apartment proved unavailing and the lights were not extinguished. The infraction has been reported to the police department.

At another residence light was noted, but inquiry disclosed the fact that it was a reflection from a fire in the fireplace. The lady of the house was notified that she was furnishing a mark for "enemy aircraft." She promptly drew down the shades, which solved the problem.

An example of the ineffectiveness of the alarm system is reported from Crown street. The family, with several neighbors, had gathered at a home there and anxiously awaited the signal—which never came. One of the party states that it was not until the street lights went out that they knew the "raid" was on. Hurley avenue residents also reported that the alarm sirens could not be heard indoors.

Expansion Is Planned

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Dec. 30 (AP)—A 50 per cent expansion of the Schatz Manufacturing Co., and Federal Bearings Co. plants in suburban Fairview, working almost exclusively on government orders for aircraft ball-bearings, was annouced today by Herrman A. Schatz, president of both firms. Schatz said the program will add three acres of floor space to the combined plants' present six and a half acres. He added similar expansion of the Waterbury Steel Ball Co., Waterbury, Conn., which he also heads, "probably will be ordered" soon.

Special Diet Session

Berlin, Dec. 30 (Official radio received by AP)—Advices from Tokyo today said that the Japanese Diet (parliament) would meet in special session tomorrow.
